For over 50 years our work with minorities and indigenous peoples across the globe has been made possible by people like you.

Do your own fundraising

You can support our work by organizing your own fundraising event. Our fundraising team will be there to help you every step of the way, from giving you ideas and tips to keeping you updated on how much of a difference you have made.

Raise awareness, funds and most importantly have fun with your own fundraising event.

Stuck for ideas? Here's a few of our favourites...

Get active...

Will you go miles for minorities and indigenous peoples? Set yourself a challenge and ask your friends, family and colleagues to sponsor you. Why not set a monthly mile running target or go green and cycle your favourite route dressed in our favourite colour? Whatever you choose, it will be a great way to keep fit and spread the word about minority and indigenous rights.

Get social...

Organize a grand get-together and invite anyone from friends and family to complete strangers. Whether it's a quiz, film screening, themed party or gig at a much-loved local venue, it's a fantastic way to socialise and achieve something amazing together.

Get cosy...

Make a difference from the comfort of your own home! Plan a sponsored readathon of your favourite books, host a small supper club or try some arts and crafts and create gifts for friends in exchange for a small donation.

Donate as you shop...

Turn your everyday shopping into donations by registering with EasyFundraising and selecting Minority Rights Group as your beneficiary charity. It's as simple as that!

Birthday fundraisers...

Share your celebrations with us and inspire your friends and family to support minority and indigenous rights by asking for donations to Minority Rights Group on your birthday. Whether you set up a Facebook fundraiser for your birthday, add a donation sticker to your Instagram story on your special day or collect donations instead of presents, every penny will make a difference to our work across the globe. What a way to celebrate your annual trip around the sun!
